ABOUT THE MAGAZINE

The magazine is published by the Finnish Aeronautical Association (FAA). The association is a member and the official Finnish representative of the International Aeronautical Federation (FAI, Fédération Aéronautique Internationale). FAA is the national and central organization of sport aviation in Finland, promoting the development of the field by, for example, publishing bulletins and organising training.

Ilmailu is the member magazine of the Finnish Aeronautical Association. In addition to general aviation articles, the magazine provides information on topics such as special aviation activities and flight safety.
